

Dear Listeners,

March 19, 2003

I haven't been much of an activist, but I am very thankful that this song arrived at a time when I feel so helpless in the face of such unprecedented and unexplained world events. This song is about love, regardless of what side you take in the conflict. (I keep thinking about Gandhi and the amazing things he accomplished with non-violence.)

This is a good sing-along song and more than anything I hope that others may want to sing it. I encourage you to duplicate the CD, together with this jacket (jacket art and mp3 available for download at joyscream.com) and send it around to your colleagues and friends.

I would love to see this song get around the world, so please send it along if you have the inclination.

Peace and love to you all,

Joyce Andersen
